DAVIDE FONTANA

Davide Fontana is an emerging artist working in new media art exploring a wide range of media including installation, video, animation, software and video games. Their practice focuses on the complexities of digital media and internet culture, seeking to reveal underlying structures and mechanisms that often remain obscured.
Through a critical look at technology and the society that uses it, he investigates the boundaries between digital and physical, fiction and reality, natural and artificial.
Their work has been exhibited at local and international exhibitions.
